Lesson 2

Microbes existed long before humans. They are considered to be the oldest living things on Earth.

In this lesson, we are going to learn about microbes and their interactions with humans throughout history.